Annex

Road map for continued work in relation to the draft regulations for exploitation of mineral resources in the Area during the third part of the twenty-eighth session of the Council of the International Seabed Authority in 2023 and the first and second part of the twenty-ninth session of the Council in 2024

I. Introduction and background

1. The following road map has been prepared by the President of the Council and endorsed by the Council by decision ISBA/28/C/24 for the organization of its work on the draft regulations on exploitation of mineral resources in the Area and associated standards and guidelines during the third part of the twenty-eighth session in 2023 (30 October to 8 November 2023) and for the first and second part of the twenty-ninth session of the Council in 2024 (March-July 2024).

2. The road map takes into account the progress made in the Council to date, including its meetings during the twenty-eighth session. It is based on the assumption that the current working modalities will be continued at least for the third part of the twenty-eighth session and that the allocation of time to each informal working group and to the Council plenary will reflect the work still to be completed by the respective working groups, including any work required on relevant standards and guidelines.¹ It is understood that once an informal working group completes its work, more time could be allocated to the remaining working groups.

II. Consolidated negotiating text

3. As proposed by the facilitators of the informal working groups, substantive written textual submissions are invited by 15 September 2023. Coordinators of the various informal intersessional working groups are also invited to submit the outcomes of any intersessional discussions by 15 September, to the extent possible.

4. During the meetings in March and July 2023, several delegations expressed an interest, at this stage of the negotiations, of making available a consolidated negotiating text of the draft regulations which would identify areas of overlap, duplication, omission and address the need for harmonization between the various provisions and related annexes. It is therefore proposed to issue such a consolidated negotiating text after the finalization of the third part of the twenty-eight session. This is without prejudice to the negotiations that will still be carried out on the consolidated negotiating text and the respect to the principle that 'nothing is agreed until everything is agreed.' The delegations considered that 'the consolidated negotiating text' means a text that is not ready for adoption and that it is still subject to further negotiations and discussions.

5. The Council decided to assess, at the end of its July 2024 meeting, in the event that exploitations regulations are not completed, the remaining work that would be needed prior to their provisional adoption and to consider another roadmap to that end.

¹ In respect of the organization of the work and information on the informal working groups, reference is made to ISBA/24/C/8/Add.1, annex II and ISBA/26/C/11.

III. Collation of texts – preparation for the November meeting

6. Ahead of the meeting in November 2023, a collation of the current texts of the informal working groups will be provided. This collation will be a “copy/paste” the texts of the different groups and with clear identification of where the different elements stem from. The respective texts of each group will also be released as usual. The aim is to release the collation on 16 October 2023. The informal working groups will continue their works in the same manner, and with the same working modalities during the November meeting.

IV. Going forward

7. Delegates exchanged views on the modalities of work that will be used in developing the continued discussions on the consolidated negotiating text, in conformity with the roadmap. It was agreed to continue the discussions on the working modalities at the end of the meeting in November 2023.

8. To enable delegations to organize themselves efficiently, an indicative schedule of work will be issued at least one month before each meeting, indicating the precise dates when each informal working group is expected to convene.
